How to Staycation Like a Snail

Written by Naseem Hrab • Illustrated by Kelly Collier

Snail is an epic explorer. Well ... kind of. He especially loves the quiet things about adventures, like reading maps, collecting souvenirs, and finding wonder around every corner. And Snail knows that not all adventures need to be far-away—they can also be near-away!—which is why he and Stump choose a vacation right at home: a staycation! They smell the smells, listen for the sounds, and take in the sights—and then they notice something so spectacular that they're able to see their neighbourhood from a whole new perspective.

Three City Kitties

Written and illustrated by Ashley Barron

Three city kitties live in an apartment on a busy street. They sit side-by-side in the window, watching the world go by. What else do city kitties do? They take a nap, hide from a delivery person, and play in a box. They beg for food and chase each other up and down the walls. This upbeat story playfully follows a day in the life of three indoor cats, with vibrant art that offers lots to explore on every page.

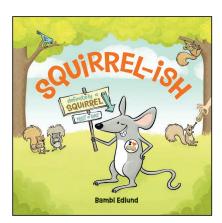

Squirrel-ish

Written and illustrated by Bambi Edlund

At the park, squirrels get all the free peanuts, and nobody screams when they scamper around. But for Rat, it's all screams and no nuts ... that is, until he comes up with a plan to solve his problem: Be more squirrel-ish! A hilarious tale about a tail and exploring the feeling that the grass is always greener for others, sending a gentle reminder about the benefits of being true to yourself.

Mummy and Me: A Monster's Tale

Written and illustrated by Danesh Mohiuddin

Wee Wolf loves his Mummy, and he has all kinds of ways to show it. During a night in the life of these two monsters, Wee Wolf joins in all of Mummy's routines and is perfectly well-behaved ... as much as a wee monster can be. This is a laugh-out-loud story about a parent's trials and tribulations with a young child, and about the boundless love a parent and child have for each other through it all.

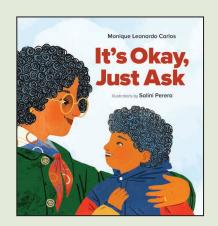

It's Okay, Just Ask

Written by Monique Leonardo Carlos • Illustrated by Salini Perera

When a young girl moves to a new country with her family, and everything seems different, she is filled with questions. Her mother always tells her, "It's okay, just ask," and so she does. As time goes on, her mother's gentle reminder guides the girl through moments of frustration and confusion and helps her face changes with curiosity, empathy, and optimism.

The Weedflower

Written by Elizabeth Davaze • Illustrated by Marianne Ferrer

One day, a small flower sprouts between the concrete and rubber turf on Sam's gray schoolyard. At first, no one else notices, but Sam encourages its growth, and soon other students join in. Under their care, the flower grows and grows, until its enormous leaves sprawl far and wide, brightening the once gloomy playground. However, where the students see wonder, the adults only see a weed. They decide the weedflower has to go, but Sam and her friends are determined to make it stay. A lighthearted modern fable about the power of nature to spark joy and defy the odds.

The Mango Monster

Written by Derek Mascarenhas • Illustrated by Meneka Repka

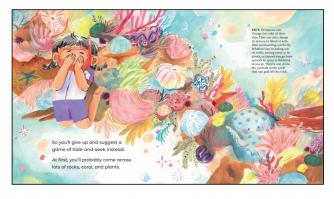

Someone is stealing mangoes from the family mango tree. Could it be a mango monster? Marianne and her sidekick cousin, Zoe, are determined to find out. At first, their attempts to catch the culprit come up empty. But setting an overnight triple trap brings surprising results. This tasty picture book with a rich Goan setting serves up the suspense of a small mystery, the camaraderie of cousins, and the delight of a sweet, juicy mango that is even more delicious when shared.

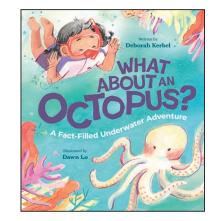

What About an Octopus? A Fact-Filled Underwater Adventure

Written by Deborah Kerbel • Illustrated by Dawn Lo

A curious child dives into a friendship with a playful octopus in this charming blend of fact and fiction. While the young girl whimsically observes her new friend's sometimes surprising behavior, a brief fact on each spread provides readers with context and further understanding of these fascinating sea creatures. Includes a list of additional octopus facts.

I Wonder About Worlds Discovering Planets and Exoplanets

Written by James Gladstone • Illustrated by Yaara Eshet

One night, a child goes stargazing with their parent, sparking the child's curiosity. They imagine rocketing through the Milky Way to visit the exoplanets beyond our own solar system. The child lands their spaceship on an Earth-like exoplanet where they discover that, unlike Earth, there are no people—and so they soon decide it's time to return home to the world they know and love best. Nonfiction sidebars accompany the wonder-filled text to inform readers about the cosmic worlds that the child encounters on their imagined journey.

Katrina Hyena, Stand-up Comedian

Written by Sophie Kohn • Illustrated by Aparna Varma

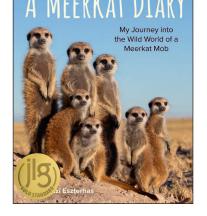

Most spotted hyenas laugh as a warning that danger is near. But not Katrina. Katrina laughs because she thinks everything in the world is sooo funny! This frustrates her clan—every time Katrina laughs, they think she's in danger and rush to help her. And this is no laughing matter because the hyena clan has a real danger to contend with: Gary the Lion! But in the end, Katrina really does get the last laugh when she achieves her dream.

A Meerkat Diary My Journey into the Wild World of a Meerkat Mob Written and photographed by Suzi Eszterhas

World-renowned wildlife photographer Suzi Eszterhas embarks on another exciting trip, this time to the heart of the Kalahari Desert in Botswana, where she meets some meerkats. Through a series of diary entries and a collection of remarkable photographs, readers will enjoy a unique and personal account as Suzi and her team closely observe a busy meerkat mob that includes five very lively young pups who must be taught to survive in a sometimes-dangerous habitat.

Bee & Flea and the Fall Fiasco

Written by Anna Humphrey • Illustrated by Mike Deas

In the third and final installment of the series, the weather is turning cold, and Bee notices that the animals in the big backyard are acting ... odd. Flea is uncharacteristically sleepy, the yard is strangely quiet, and then there's the commotion at the compost heap—a huge, round, orange object is looming over the earthworms! Bee and her new friend, Fuzz, a woolly bear caterpillar, can't convince a very tired Flea to help, so Bee turns to her old bee colony for backup. But she soon learns that the insects and other critters are merely slowing down and adapting to get through winter.

I Need Pants!

Written by Susan Sweet • Illustrated by Cailin Doherty

At the start of this highly absurd and immensely funny, fishy tale, Fish has a wish. A wish for pants. But Octopus says pants are not for fish. Fish don't have legs! So Fish wishes for something else. A pair of fuzzy bunny slippers! But Octopus points out that fish have flippers, not feet! For every fish wish, Octopus has a rational rebuttal ... until a confession from Octopus leads the two friends to an important discovery: your own happiness doesn't have to make sense to anyone but you.

Hugs Are (Not) for Everybody

Written by Ella Russell • Illustrated by Udayana Lugo

The delightful characters from Pink Is for Everybody are back to celebrate a birthday! On such a happy day, there are hugs all around. Because hugs are for everybody ... aren't they? Maybe some people prefer a high five, for example. Or better yet, a silly, super-secret handshake! All you have to do is ask. This important story about respecting personal boundaries shows how there are lots of fun, creative, and inclusive ways to express friendship and love for the non-huggers of the world.

The Eidi Bag

Written by Shazia Afzal • Illustrated by Shiva Delsooz

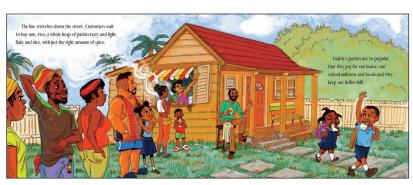

Sarah is excited to celebrate Eid al-Fitr in her new country. Although her mother warns her that things might be different than they were in Pakistan, she is unfazed—she has her Eidi bag ready to hold gifts of money. Unfortunately, no one pays any attention to Sarah's waiting Eidi bag! But later that day, friends and family offer gifts that give Sarah a new perspective and appreciation for the traditions of her adopted country.

Patty Dreams

Written by Nadia L. Hohn • Illustrated by Sahle Robinson

After moving away from Jamaica where his father owned a bakery, a young boy misses the delicious, flaky Jamaican patties that made the bakery so famous. He begs his father to make the patties for him in their new country, but his father is too exhausted from working long hours at a factory. So one night, the boy takes matters into his own hands ... A story of immigration and belonging.

Hannah and the Wrong Note

Written by Shane Goth • Illustrated by Sara Gagnon-Dumont

Hannah dreams of becoming a famous musician who can play every note perfectly. When a wrong note ruins everything at her school concert, Hannah is devastated. But her younger sister, Jenny, thinks wrong notes are fun and dances along joyfully. Slowly, Hannah is inspired to experiment with music. The results are not quite perfect, fun to create, and all her own. This sibling story gently nudges those with perfectionistic tendencies to embrace the process and see mistakes as opportunities for growth.

Ready, Set, Mango!

Written by Tamla Young • Illustrated by Raz Latif

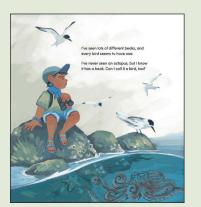

Cousins Tee and Dee are the best of friends ... and the most competitive of friends. They argue over who's the best at everything. When Auntie sends them out to pick mangoes, the two girls bicker over who will find the best fruit—until something better distracts them. Beautiful, shiny, black pebbles! The girls scramble to collect the shiniest pebbles, the roundest pebbles, and the most pebbles, arguing all the while. Suddenly the girls spot a goat—pooping shiny black pebbles! The girls erupt into laughter when they realize what they've been fighting over and end the day enjoying delicious mangoes together.

What Makes a Bird?

Written by Megan Pomper • Illustrated by Mariah Hoekstra

Do feathers make a bird? Is it a beak that's important? Or is a bird a bird because it has wings? Who gets to decide? This thoughtful meditation on what makes a bird similar or different, ordinary or unique, will encourage kids to reflect on what makes us human and to question the world around them.

Marty at My Birthday Party

Written and illustrated by Katie Arthur

Henry has invited his new friend, Marty, to his birthday party. But the night before the party, his mind starts spinning: What if Marty doesn't have fun? What if she doesn't like the cake or thinks his apartment is too small? But every time Henry worries that something bad will happen, his older sister comes up with something good that might happen instead ... A gentle story that will help kids conquer a common fear: that someone might not like you once they see who you really are.

About Owlkids Books Inc.

Owlkids Books publications reflect and respect the intelligence, imagination, and curiosity of children, marrying substance and style. Covering a wide range of subjects, from insightful picture books and humorous graphic novels to thought-provoking non-fiction, our books for children aged 0–13 are recognized for their signature energy, creativity, sense of humor, and thematic relevance. They have been sold in more than 20 languages in countries around the world. Owlkids Books has been nominated three times for the BOP Bologna Prize for Best Children's Publisher (North America) and is a division of Bayard Canada.
